Description	6/4/2024 El Paso Computes is a program in partnership with UTEP, EPCC, and the school districts in underserved area. The program aims to provide students with K-12 educational benefits related to Computer Science, specifically, Cybersecurity and Artificial Intelligence. It will also assist K-12 area school district teachers in obtaining a certification in Computer Science and developing a curriculum to bridge the gap in computer science education. The funding will directly impact underserved community areas, where students may not have access to tools and learning curriculum, enabling them to explore higher learning opportunities. Additionally, this initiative will have a long-term economic development impact to the community.
